Dear George:

The attached article from the New York Times speaks to the issue in which you and I are so passionately involved and connected. I think it's time for us to develop boycotts of these highly expensive and terrible movies that go against the will of the country as well as the will of the President and Congress.

We may not have the luxury of time to develop the movement slowly and gradually which I also think might be best without some serious action.

I hope you had a wonderful holiday season and I look forward to seeing you on January 7.

Sincerely yours,

Paul Jay Fink, M.D.

Dear George:

The meeting with Helen Caldicott was quite wonderful. I regret that there were so few people in the audience. I feel that you are on the right track and the need for changing the total value system and environment in which we live is urgent. During the last week I received two requests for organizations that in some measure are akin to the Cultural Environment Movement. The first is from a new organization called CAMERA which stands for Committee for Accuracy in Middle East Reporting in America and the second is called the Council for a Livable World.

You may have already heard of these two organizations, but I thought you would find them of interest. There may be some reason to have a larger, single organization.

Sincerely yours,

Paul Jay Fink, M.D.

Dear George:

I am writing on a matter which I think is of great importance for CEM. I recently had dinner with Dr. Amitai Etzioni, the current President of the American Sociological Association. He is a communitarian and greatly interested in the development of a different kind of community. It is in many ways parallel to or similar to the work of CEM. I explained our purpose with regard to changing the way television is presented worldwide and his work with trying to get rid of all firearms has a similar and analogous purpose.

I would like to be sure that he is sent all of the materials possible regarding CEM and perhaps the two of you can talk. I have enclosed a copy of his card.

Thank you very much. I look forward to seeing you at the next meeting.

Sincerely yours,

Paul Jay Fink, M.D.

RE: September 22 Convention Planning Session

Thank you for sending me the CEM announcement. If there is a Board of Directors meeting on October 6, I will be there. However, I am unable to go St. Louis in September. I have an extensive trip planned at that time to a number of cities and it would be impossible for me to change the arrangements.

Please let me know if there will be a meeting in October.
