A Revealing, Explosive Novel About The Sex And Violence
Of The Men Who Make TV— By One Of Them!

ABOUT THE BOOK

Steve Lane, president of FBC-TV is being crucified by a headline-hunting senator—and his business associates are supplying the hammer and nails! Past successes count for nothing, friendships are forgotten, scruples are ignored, as his fellow executives cover their tracks and offer up Steve as a sacrifice to appease the government investigators.

At the same time, his marriage is failing, but there is a young and nubile actress standing by, hoping to replace his wife.

Steve must decide whether to risk his career and buck the system, or play the game and keep his plush office. He must also settle his lovelife before he loses his wife forever. The solution he chooses is spectacular and surprising!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

David Levy... present head of Wilshire Productions... former vice president of NBC-TV... in charge of television for Young & Rubicam for more than 20 years... creator of programs like Bat Masterson, The Addams Family, Sarge, and many more... introducer of Bonanza, Dr. Kildare, Hazel, The Wonderful World of Walt Disney, 87th Precinct, and too many more to mention... trend setter in movies for TV with NBC's Saturday Night At The Movies... producer of Task Force, a new series in conjunction with Columbia Pictures TV, which starts in December 1976... author of The Gods Of Foxcroft... THAT David Levy wrote this ruthless and revealing novel about the machinations of top corporation management, The Family Hour, Senate investigations into sex and violence, and what they mean to the public. Mr. Levy declines to state whether THE NETWORK JUNGLE is autobiographical, but he bears a great physical resemblance to its hero, Steve Lane.
