Dear Sir:

I am very happy to let you know that we, as PANAJANS Research and Communication Ltd., got a grant from the Family Research Directorate of the Ministry of Women's Affairs of Turkey, to investigate the "Television and Family." The research consists of message system analysis of five channels of television programs and cultivation analysis of families in Turkey. The deadline of the research is 4 December 1993. The first four months, we will do the message system analysis, and in the summer time, we will collect the cultivation data.

I am planning to submit a report of preliminary findings at the ICA Conference this May in Washington, D.C.

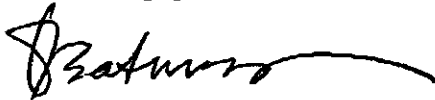

For this reason, I send a message to Nancy Signorielli to send me:

- (1) Bibliography about the Family and Cultivation.
- (2) If available, I also need some coding books, tailored to investigate the family portrayals in television.
- (3) And cultivation questionnaire for "Family and Television," if there is one.

I do not want to take your time but if you could help me, I will be very grateful. Thank you very much in advance.

I wish you a happy new year.

Sincerely yours,

Veysel Batmaz

This is where I am
the Academic Director.
We are thinking the same thing with Webster. You might suggest some other USA universities as well. Veysel

Dear Dr. Gerbner:

It was very nice to be at the Founding Convention of CEM. I hope that CEM will be an ongoing organization rather than a movement. I will do whatever it needs to be done in Turkey for CEM. If you are willing to have a regional conference of CEM for the Middle East and Eastern Europe, İstanbul might be a good place, and I can organize it for the next year. Please let me know.

As I told you before, I will submit the documents of CEM at the HABITAT-II in İstanbul in the NGO meetings.

Enclosed is the book I mentioned about: The Cultural Indicators Project covering "Family and Television in Turkey." It was supported by the Turkish Prime Ministry-Research Institute for Family. We are hoping to get a new grant this year about "Women and Television." Although the book is in Turkish, I thought it should be in your CI archives. Maybe, Nejat might look at it and translate some parts of it.

On pages 121-128, there are some mainstreaming findings. We have only used two independent variables: age (young-old) and gender (male-female). They seem to converge on some of the social issues when they watch more television.

I hope everything is well for you and I am looking forward to hearing about CEM.

Best wishes,

Veysel Batmaz

P.S.: I had talks with Webster University officials about having a Campus in İstanbul. They were very warm at the issue. We will be in contact with them.
