

DEAK, Istvan

OF 212-280-4627

H 212-222-8212

Professor of History
Institute on East Central Europe
School of International Affairs
Room 1229 - 420 West 118th Street
Columbia University
New York, NY 10027

February 15, 1982

Istvan Deak
Professor of History
Institute on East Central Europe
Columbia University
School of International Affairs
Room 1229 - 420 West 118th Street
Columbia University
New York, NY 10027

Dear Professor Deak:

Thank you for expressing interest in our project. I am attaching:

1. A sample copy of the Journal of Communication;
2. A draft paragraph containing the germ of the idea for the symposium of studies to be published.

I too am struck by what appears to be a proliferation of conferences and even books on similar topics. Perhaps we shouldn't add to that. But I feel that the cultural and communicational conditions that make genocide possible (even if not inevitable) have not been sufficiently examined.

My wife Ilona and I look forward to seeing you on Wednesday, February 24, at 6:15 in The Ginger Man restaurant, 51 West 64th Street (399-2358). I will confirm a day or two before.

Sincerely yours,

George Gerbner
Professor of Communications and Dean

GC:ab

Enclosures

Istvan Deak
Professor of History
Institute on East Central Europe
School of International Affairs
Room 1229 420 West 118th Street
Columbia University
New York, N. Y. 10027

Dear Professor Deak:

Thank you for expressing interest in our project.
I am attaching:

1. A sample copy of the Journal of Communication;
2. A draft paragraph containing the germ of the idea for the symposium of studies to be published.

I too am struck by what appears to be a proliferation of conferences and even books on similar topics. Perhaps we shouldn't add to that. But I feel that the cultural and communicational conditions that make genocide possible (even if not inevitable) have not been sufficiently examined.

My wife Ilona and I look forward to seeing you on Wednesday, Feb. 24, at 6:15 in The Ginger Man restaurant, 51 W. 64th Street (399 2358). I will confirm a day or two before.

Sincerely yours,

Professor of Communications
and Dean