

Newspapers are forever rehearsing robberies, burglaries, and larcenies symbolic value, sales value (?)

Having read Burch's statement, Johnson issued an "addendum" to his dissent and he said: "The chairman makes a number of points concerning the dissenting opinion. All are either wrong, fail to meet the objections raised, or actually support the dissenting opinion." He also defended his view of the commission and staff and said that law and order enforcement "should also apply to the white collar corporate criminal, who is capable of robbing the American people of more money with a single price fixing conspiracy, say, than they will lose in all the robberies, burglaries, and larcenies committed throughout the entire U.S. during a year."
