To Friends and Collaborators of Harold D. Lasswell:

As among the friends and collaborators of Harold Lasswell and as literary executors of his estate, we are writing to let you know that the Yale University Library's Department of Manuscripts and Archives is now the official repository for Harold's papers and memorabilia. The processing of the collection should commence soon and be completed by 1985. If you have, or know of, any material which you think might be appropriate for inclusion in the collection, could you get in touch with us or with Ms. Katharine Morton, who is in charge of Manuscripts and Archives*.

Should you have relevant materials which you wish to keep for the time being, please have a copy made now and sent to the Archives, so that a record of their existence and content is available to researchers. You might also consider donating the original material to the Archive at a later date.

We are sending this letter to all persons whose names appear in Harold's mailing file. If the request is inappropriate for you, we apologize.

Your cooperation is deeply appreciated.

Sincerely,

Myres S. McDougal
