Dear Nolan:

It was a pleasure to speak with you on Friday. As we discussed, the Benton Foundation and Columbia University's Institute for Tele-Information (CITI) are jointly sponsoring a symposium in Washington D.C. on Friday, October 15, 1993, to explore how the tradition of universal telephone service might be extended and financed in a competitive, multi-service, multi-provider telecommunications environment. I am writing to invite you to participate in the program as a presenter.

In light of your leading efforts to address universal service issues in terms of equity, access, and their social implications, I would like you to help frame the day's events by speaking at the opening session. In particular, I hope you will highlight for the audience how the issue of access to information and information technologies, and thus the issue of universal service, points directly at the larger issue you have raised in your work as the backdrop to the universal service debate: "what kind of society do we want."

Your role in framing the issues for the the rest of the day's discussion is especially important inasmuch as a key audience for our symposium are the leaders of nonprofit organizations in education, health and other social service areas, as well as public interest advocates. I hope these stakeholders will come to see their interest in the future of telecommunications policy through the lenses of equity and access.

Working with Eli Noam, CITI's Director, we have already confirmed the participation of an outstanding group of nationally respected experts in this field. Your colleagues on the program will include:

Michael Einhorn

Economist, US Department of Justice

Susan Hadden

Professor of Public Affairs, LBJ School, University of Texas, Austin

Koichiro Hayashi

President & CEO, NTT America

Heather Hudson

Director, Telecommunications Management & Policy Program,
University of San Francisco

Milton Mueller

Assistant Professor of Communications, Rutgers University

Eli Noam

Director, Columbia Institute for Tele-Information
Professor of Economics & Finance, Columbia University

Jorge Schement

Associate Professor of Communications, Rutgers University

Steven Wildman

Director, Program In Telecommunications Science, Management & Policy
Associate Professor of Communications Studies, Northwestern University

I am excited by the prospect of your joining our program. To support your participation, we would be pleased to cover your travel expenses between Philadelphia and Washington, D.C. Moreover, since you will be speaking early in the day, if you would prefer to come in on Thursday evening, we would be happy to provide you a hotel room for that evening. (I will follow up with you with the specific time in the next few days.)

Please let me know how you wish to proceed on these arrangements. I look forward to speaking with you again soon, and working with you on these critical issues.

Sincerely,

Andrew Blau
Coordinator
Communications Policy Project

Politics, and Public Policy

Nolan - I am trying to respond to your fax of 11/30, but cannot reach you by phone at the 617 860 5266 number. Will try e-mail as well.

Meeting with Ronnie Dugger on Dec 27 is possible; tell me more about when and where, etc.

I will ask Ed Baker if he can join us on Dec. 8. I already have an lunch appointment with Ivan Juzang (whom you may know) so please join us: White Dog at 1 pm. Ok?

Did you receive materials about CEM Convention, Working Groups, etc?

I will probably also speak at Media and Democracy Congress.

Call me to discuss these and other things, and/or let me know what's a good time and place to reach you.

George

Hi George:

Yes, I received your fax and e-mail messages. I'm renting Lew Rambo's house in Lexington. I will be at the White Dog on Friday at 1 PM. Ronnie Dugger cannot make the December 27th dinner. Wants a new date in January, either the 4th or the 7th. He will take the train down from New York City. I attempted to fax you this info last evening but your fax was not accepting...See you Friday.

Nolan

Nolan - it was good to see you here. Will be in touch soon about Charter. As to Ronnie Dugger: I will be in NY Tues. Jan 2, a 2-3 appointment. So we could meet earlier or later in the day. Jan 4 is not good for me and 7th (Sunday) is difficult. Please ask him if 2nd in NY is ok, or Jan 3 or 5 or week of 6 here. Also, can you tell (or send) me more about him? All I have is the ms or transcript of speech you sent me. Somebody told me that he had an article in the NATION (I have not found it yet) and is also planning a conference in St. Louis. Is that so? George.

Dear Nolan:

We had a wonderful year, and I look forward to welcoming you back to the Shorenstein Center in January, 1997.

I shall not burden you with clichés about time flying, but I cannot resist noting that your year with us did march into history with astonishing speed. I for one had the special pleasure of co-teaching the Center's special seminar with you and learning so much from you in the process. You are an intelligent and highly cooperative colleague, a pleasure to work with, and I suspect the students share my view. But what I especially enjoyed--and others at the Center agree wholeheartedly--was the opportunity to work with you at seminars, brown bags and other such meetings, and to hear you express your views and opinions about a whole range of subjects from politics to cyberspace. You respected everyone else's views, but you advanced your own with strength and courtesy, and we all admired that.

Have an uneventful but pleasant summer. Keep in touch.

All the best,
